Questions

What people ask before they start

Something not covered here? Ask us directly and an engineer will answer.

Ask a question (https://codetrappers.com/contact/)

Whichever survives your rules. An established plugin covers vendor onboarding, commissions and payouts out of the box and is the right start for most marketplaces. Custom becomes the answer when your commission logic, payout timing or vendor model does not fit what those plugins assume.

Split at the point of payment where the gateway supports it, otherwise calculated and paid on a schedule with a statement each vendor can reconcile. The part to get right first is refunds, because that is where commission maths usually falls apart.

Approval workflows, required fields with validation, and reporting that surfaces vendors whose returns or complaints are climbing. A marketplace lives or dies on catalogue quality, and that is a moderation problem more than a technical one.
